South Dublin and the 1916 Rising in Oral Histories Irish Life and Lore

This presentation features interviews conducted by Maurice O'Keeffe during the past few years and in so doing he has ensured the preservation of information which otherwise would have gone to the grave. These recordings which were compiled with the sons, daughters, grandchildren and other close relatives of those central to events at Easter 1916. Herein are valuable snippets of information which add colour and sometimes extra detail to well-known events in the narrative of the War of Independence and its aftermath

A Concert to Remember

A “Grand Irish Concert” was due to take place in Clondalkin Library on 30th April 1916 in aid of the Clondalkin branch of the Gaelic League. It never happened. Three of the performers were either killed or arrested during the Rising a few days previously. Clondalkin Library will honour the memory of these people with a celebratory concert featuring Irish music, dancing and recitations. The event will be hosted by Ferdia MacAnna. It will take place on Saturday 30th April 2016 – exactly 100 years to the day of the original concert.

Art Demonstration with Morgan Gibbs

Morgan Gibbs is completely self-taught artist and because of the high quality finish on his pencil drawings received many commissions all by word of mouth. He began using oils in 2008 and never looked back. One of Morgan's passions and subsequent inspirations for his paintings comes from his love of wildlife. Morgan has been lucky enough to have visited and photographed all seven continents and has seen all of his subjects in their natural habitats, which gives him a unique insight and allows him to capture this in his paintings and drawings. Since exhibiting in 2008 Morgan has received much interest in his work and now his work can be found in collections around Ireland, Europe and the USA

History of Theatre – Putting Shakespeare into context

Working with children aged 9+ we will examine theatre through the ages. Beginning with Greek Theatre and the use of masks, we will then progress to Medieval Miracle Plays and the impact that the Plague had on entertainment! Reaching the Shakespearean era and studying Shakespeare's compelling characters, his unique storytelling and his ability to achieve such eloquence in his work we will discover why the man is so important and still relevant in the 21st century.

These workshops will include artwork, reading scripts and discovering the social history of the various ages.

Creative Writing Workshops on 1916 Rising

(Based on photographs & images from the time) with Nicola Pierce

Nicola Pierce lives in the town of Drogheda in Ireland. Following her many successful ghostwritten books for adults, Nicola published her first book for children, Spirit of the Titanic. The book received rave reviews, and ran to five printings within its first twelve months. City of Fate is her second book for children and transports the reader deep into the Russian city of Stalingrad during World War II. Her Third novel Behind the Walls is based on 1916 Rising.
